The Ho-Chunk Nation and the Menominee Nation are the original First People of Wisconsin and both Nations have ancient historical and spiritual connections to the land that our institution now resides upon. Today, Wisconsin is home to 12 First Nations communities including the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin, Forest County Potawatomi, Ojibwe Nation communities, Stockbridge-Munsee Community Band of Mohican Indians, and the Brothertown Indian Nation.

We acknowledge the First Nations Peoples of Wisconsin.

Congratulations

Dear Graduate,

Congratulations! This is a day to remember and I am thrilled to be sharing in your accomplishments and celebrating your persistence to degree completion. You worked tirelessly to balance work and family with your studies, to overcome challenges of all kinds, and adapt to situations and circumstances that were unfamiliar.

You chose to RISE!

I have the greatest admiration for you. And I applaud the members of the UW-Green Bay faculty and staff who supported you to this end. The work you put in toward degree completion prepares you to be a leader in your respective fields and in a position to give back to the communities you will reside in. My greatest hope is that you leave not only with a degree, but also understanding the obligation that comes with it... to value those around you, to see the world through many lenses, and to lead for the greater good, in whatever path you choose. While this degree marks a significant milestone in your education, I urge you to continue being a learner for your entire life.

Remember, that there is tremendous responsibility that comes along with your degree and great potential to make a difference. I hope you will realize that full potential and join the 40,000-plus Phoenix alumni who are making a positive impact in their communities.

It is an honor for me to serve this great University and to be with you to celebrate this important milestone in your life!

ACADEMIC RITUAL & ATTIRE

The procedure followed for awarding of degrees at most American universities is based on a practice developed at the University of Paris almost 800 years ago. In those days, the Bishop of Paris, like every other bishop, was responsible for educational matters. As the new university developed, he naturally claimed authority over curriculum and degree granting. His authority however was disputed by teachers who asserted only they could judge students' qualifications.

A threatened impasse was resolved by a compromise under which the teachers judged the merits of the students and then recommended them to the bishop for their degrees. You see a secularized version with the Vice Chancellor, as representative of the faculty, certifying the students as qualified. The Chancellor, as representative of the Regents, who have replaced the bishop as the governing authority, then authorizes the awarding of degrees.

The caps and gowns worn by graduates and faculty are based on costumes used in universities of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, particularly at Oxford and Cambridge in England. The academic dress has been used in the United States from colonial times and was standardized by Intercollegiate Code in 1895. The black gowns worn by the associate, bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree holders differ in design and ornamentation, particularly in the sleeves. The cap is black mortarboard with the tassel worn over the left front quadrant. Undergraduate candidates shift their tassel from right to left at the time their degrees are conferred.

Hoods symbolize the master's and doctoral degrees, with the colors representing the field of study and the awarding institution. Graduates may wear regalia in recognition of academic status and honor society memberships.

THE MEANING OF HONORS

The use of Latin terms reflects the medieval origins of academic ceremony: cum laude indicates distinction; magna cum laude, great distinction; summa cum laude, highest distinction.

At UW-Green Bay, students achieve a 3.5 to 3.749 grade point average (on a 4.0 scale) to graduate cum laude. Magna cum laude honors are awarded to students who achieve a cumulative average of 3.75 to 3.849. For highest honors — summa cum laude — students must average 3.85 or higher; or a 3.75 to 3.849 plus eligibility for and successful completion of an honors-in-the-major project. To qualify for honors, students must complete 48 credits in residence.

Some majors offer special distinction honors in the major. For this distinction, students must achieve a 3.5 or higher grade point average on all courses required for their major, and a 3.75 grade point in all junior-senior level major courses required, and complete an honors-in-the-major project.

Students graduating with honors will be recognized as such with the following after their name:

* Cum laude
 Magna cum laude
 Summa cum laude
† Honors in the major

FINDING SAFE HARBOR

There still may be those “old-school” types out there. Preferring that higher education stick to the “three r’s” of reading, ‘riting and ‘rithmatic. Kelsi Engelhardt blazed her own path embracing the “three c’s”—community, connection and caring.

She isn’t concerned about hard skills being underrepresented in the Engelhardt family. “My older sister has all the talent for numbers, she’s a senior strategic information analyst.” Middle sister strikes a compromise between the two, launching a career in industrial psychology and human services. And no worries—success is assured. All three are UW-Green Bay graduates.

Kelsi Engelhardt’s accomplishments? Lengthy and audible. But an impressive resume doesn’t begin to tell her story. As Georjeanna Wilson-Doenges, professor and chair of Psychology puts it, “the accomplishment that really makes Kelsi stand out is her clear passion for serving as an advocate for victims of sexual assault and domestic abuse at Safe Harbor in Sheboygan.”

Her story began in her lifetime home of Sheboygan. Her reasons for attending college at the UW-Green Bay, Sheboygan Campus, familiar. “I wanted to stay close to home and save money while I figured out what I wanted to do for my career.”

She enjoyed the search, taking an array of courses. “I thought I might want to teach biology or become a nurse or even an actress.” She made the most of every opportunity Sheboygan’s campus had to offer her, from being a peer tutor to being a paid stage manager for University Theatre.

Then with an associate’s degree in hand and just two weeks into her first semester at Green Bay, “I took a huge leap of faith. Dropped my biology courses and took on two psychology classes instead.” She never looked back.

Her achievements since are impressive: reference editor for a professor’s manuscript; peer advisor for the psychology department; production assistant with the Psychology & Stuff Podcast; designing her own research study as an honors project; joining a research team whose findings were accepted into the Research in the Rotunda Conference at the Capitol in Madison and the 2022 Midwestern Psychological Association (MPA) conference in Chicago where she won a regional research award. Engelhardt was also recently nominated for the UW-Green Bay Psychology Rock Star Award—the highest student award in a department of nearly 900 psychology majors.

To some, these accolades might represent a “ticket out of town” and on to bigger and brighter things. But for Engelhardt, her heart is inexorably attached to her hometown community—and Safe Harbor.

Engelhardt’s grandmother, Mary Kalk, a longtime member and past president of Wisconsin NOW (National Organization of Women) in the 1980s was instrumental in the founding of Safe Harbor. “She’s still a massive inspiration to me,” Engelhardt adds. But Kelsi Engelhardt’s connection to Safe Harbor was even more personal. “I always wanted to work for them because I was victimized in the past. They were the advocates that worked with me and changed my life.”

The incident happened in high school. She simply calls it “a date gone wrong. An advocate from Safe Harbor came to the hospital, was very supportive and helped me through the healing process. It was a sexual assault. It took me a long time to wrap my mind around it.”

Fast forward seven years and an opportunity to give back. “I got my foot in the door with an internship. My supervisor saw a lot of potential in me. I was offered a part-time job and now a full-time position.”

Even now she wonders if that past victimization also spurred her interest in psychology. “Psychology was something that I knew would allow me to work with people. I also wanted to understand the way people thought and navigated and experienced the world in the way they did.”

What also inspired her was the support she found throughout her journey.

“The people I’ve met at Green Bay and Sheboygan are what have made my college career what it was. I just want to give a massive shout-out to the people in my life who helped and supported me, because without them I wouldn’t have been able to do this.”

ANGELINE BOULLEY

UW-Green Bay is thrilled to welcome Angeline Boulley back to UW-Green Bay. The New York Times bestselling author spent time in UW-Green Bay classrooms and at a public presentation in October of 2021.

Boulley, an enrolled member of the Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians, is a storyteller who writes about her Ojibwe community in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. She is a former director of the Office of Indian Education at the U.S. Department of Education. Angeline lives in southwest Michigan, but her home will always be on Sugar Island. Firekeeper's Daughter is her debut novel, and was an instant #1 NYT Bestseller. It also won the Walter Dean Myers Award for Outstanding Children's Literature (Teen category) in 2022.

In her riveting novel, a biracial, unenrolled tribal member and the product of a scandal, Daunis Fontaine, has never quite fit in—both in her hometown and on the nearby Ojibwe reservation. When her family is struck by tragedy, Daunis puts her dreams on hold to care for her fragile mother. After Daunis witnesses a shocking murder that thrusts her into a criminal investigation, she agrees to go undercover. But the deceptions—and deaths—keep piling up and soon the threat strikes too close to home. How far will she go to protect her community if it means tearing apart the only world she's ever known?

DOCTORAL DEGREES

This year UW Green Bay awards the first doctoral degrees.

Congratulations to students receiving an Education Doctorate (Ed.D.) in First Nations Education, a program devoted to the revitalization of Indigenous ways of knowing and being. Indigenous teaching and learning is grounded in the time-honored oral tradition. Oral scholars and academic faculty collaborate and co-teach Ed.D. courses.

The 54-credit degree program consists of core courses offered in a week-end class schedule. Courses address topics such as ancestral leadership, indigenous pedagogy, First Nations law and policy, generational healing, and Indigenous research methods. An applied dissertation project is the culmination of the doctoral program.

The Ed.D. program and its faculty, staff and oral scholars are committed to education that supports the resurgence of indigenous ways of knowing and wellness of all living things.

SHOCKING RESULTS

These days, strolling out of UW-Green Bay with a degree in engineering is a very good thing. With the rapid growth of high-tech manufacturing in our region, most graduates can just keep walking into extremely well-paying jobs and flourishing careers. But Jordan Cioni marches to the beat of his own sine wave.

“Once I polish off this engineering degree it’s off to River Falls.” To pursue a degree in physics.

Physics? While one of the most elegant of intellectual pursuits, (Cioni calls it “the science of all sciences”), physicists typically do not command the income-generating potential of engineering. And there are a lot fewer of them.

If UW-Green Bay had a physics major that would have been his first choice. The primary influence to embrace engineering was something far more impactful than earning potential—the personal attention and professional camaraderie of Jagadeep Thota, associate professor and chair of Engineering and Engineering Technology.

“I’m working with Professor Thota researching shock mitigation.” Temptingly described in the professor’s bio as the analysis of structures under severe loading conditions such as explosions and projectile impacts. Does that mean they get to blow things up?

“We do not. I was kind of hoping we could.” All shocks occur as computer simulations and equations.

Professor Thota’s admiration for his student is obvious. “Jordan is one of the most well-rounded and self-motivated students I have come across in my more than a decade of higher education experience,” he noted in a letter of recommendation.

Cioni concedes he had no idea what his major might be or even if college was the right choice. “For my first two years in college, I was pretty much lost and spinning my wheels. I could have put on a master’s class on how to disappoint parents.”

That state-of-affairs hardly seems possible for someone whose current resume includes a 4.0 average in his engineering classes, presidency of UW-Green Bay Engineering Club, selection to present at the 18th Annual Research in the Rotunda conference and an Elijah high-altitude balloon scholar—a NASA sponsored Wisconsin Space Grant Consortium funded research scholarship. Along with conducting research and publishing work with Thota.

For Cioni, math has always been a true love/hate/love relationship. "When I was walking out of high school, pre-calc was my last exam. I told myself 'I'm never going to do math again!' Then two years later I was sitting in statistics class as a sophomore in college and I realized, 'Man, I miss math!'"

As an engineering major, he made up for lost time, taking Calculus I and II as summer classes. Then something remarkable happened, the spinning wheel achieved traction. "When I was about two weeks into the summer classes, I realized this was precisely where I needed to be because it was so much fun."

And, he had found his flock. "With engineering classes, it's no secret that they can be really challenging. There's a lot of classes. You see each other in literally all the same classes for the next three years. You start working together, collaborating and helping each other out."

But there was still the siren's call of physics to contend with. He considered transferring for a time, and that's when Professor Thota had his biggest impact. "He made me the one offer I couldn't refuse—the chance to do research with him."

Next fall, the dream of studying physics will become a reality at UW-River Falls. But at this moment, Cioni is convinced it wasn't just science that saved his college career, but UW-Green Bay's spirit of community. "I really credit this school, all the people, all the professors, all the students for creating this supportive environment that allowed me to grow, make better decisions, and have a lot more hope for this future."

Gochnauer and his wife, Beth, have two adult children and six grandchildren. Together, they endow the Richard and Beth Gochnauer Scholarship and have committed support to UW-Green Bay through the Phuture Phoenix program and the Engineering Technology program. Beth Gochnauer serves as a trustee on UW-Green Bay's Chancellor's Council of Trustees since 2013, and she also served on UWGB's Board of Visitors from 1974 through 1982.

PHOENIX FIGHT SONG

Hail! To the Fighting Phoenix
Rise up and light the flame!
Green Bay is the home of Champions
We're gonna' win this game!
Hail! To the Fighting Phoenix
We're rising up to say
Fight! Fight! Fight! For a win tonight
The Champions from old Green Bay!

ALMA MATER

Let us rise above these waters,
Men and women of Green Bay.
Rise in knowledge,
Rise in wisdom,
Rise in friendship sealed today.

As the Phoenix rose from flame,
Let us rise and still proclaim,
That we pledge our Alma Mater,
And the memories of her name.

"Alma Mater" composed by Prof. Emeritus Lovell Ives with lyrics by former Prof. Peter Stambler
